SHARP THE COLLIE.

A Dog Who Had More Sense Than a Good Many Human Beings.

I called him at times by a pet name, which he was always glad to hear, and spoke to him as if he were a human being, says James Munro in the Leisure Hour. "Sharp" was merely retained as his business title, and strictly reserved for the serious pursuits of life. The pet name, he soon came to know, was a signal for pleasant conversation. At the sound of this name his happiness was full, and it was a pure pleasure to watch the joy that, so to speak, sparkled in his bright, intelligent eyes. He very soon understood almost every word that was spoken to him. His anxiety to please and show sympathy with his master was remarkable. Unlike other collies, he took great delight in watching the angles and, as I asked to do, would carry a trout in his mouth with evident pleasure. He once caught a grunion on his own account, and his usually good opinion of himself was raised considerably by this exploit. It happened in this way: I was passing a small river in Sutherland, accompanied by my canine friend, when a grilse ran up the stream, making a great flutter in the shallow water. Sharp rushed after the fish, and catching it by the head killed it.

He always displayed a great fondness for boating, and, indeed, took a deep interest in every thing that concerned his master. He would attempt to carry out my wishes in every particular, and on the whole he was most successful in his efforts. On being asked to speak he would utter a series of sounds which was clearly an imitation of the human voice.

Sharp had a strong regard for children, and it was touchingly beautiful to observe the studied care which he evinced for the little ones, as well as the kindly interest he took in their movements. On one occasion I was greatly interested in his benevolence to them, and I never forgot the incident. The children belonging to a family in which I lived for a brief period were amusing themselves on the green ground in front of the house. The two older ones went off, in their innocent frolics, some distance from the youngest child, a boy about two years old, who was left in charge of Sharp. At length the toddling little man lost his balance and fell, and, being unwilling or unable to rise, set up a loud roar of distress. The dog was at his side in an instant. He looked around in great perplexity, and perceiving no one, for I was partially concealed from view, he promptly went to the aid of the child. He caught the little fellow gently by the dress and tried to raise him, but instead of improving matters, the child vented his grief in louder tones than before. Sharp was in a sad dilemma, and seeing he could not render assistance to the child the poor dog began to cry in a most affecting manner. Both the child and the dog wept together. I have seen the collie at different times shedding tears of anguish when punished for misdeeds, but this sight was as unexpected as it was extraordinary. Sharp was frequently known to weep over the children in their little sorrows, and it was observed his happiness was complete when they were happy. In like manner he partook of the sadness of his master, and from constant fellowship with man and careful training he undoubtedly was no stranger to the workings of the human heart.

"Some eight or ten years ago," says Sanford, "I was at work for a prominent druggist in Boston. For some little time I had been suffering with dyspepsia, and the ailment bothered me so much I became unbearable. I at last mixed up a decoction that gave me great relief. I was to take it before meals, and placed the bottle on a shelf behind the prescription counter among other bottles which are usually found in that place. One noon I went to take my medicine. I took down what I thought to be the right bottle, and, discarding the use of a spoon, I placed the bottle to my mouth and took a large swallow. Horrors! The taste told me that I had made a mistake! I looked at the bottle and—well, my friend, I had taken a large dose of Indian cannabis, or otherwise hashish. I knew what the results would be. I staggered back to the rear part of the store. How queer I felt. How light I was growing. Up, up, up I went, until my head bobbed against the ceiling. I was like a cork floating on disturbed water. I glided along, and could look down and see the huge bottles, each one with a hideous face laughing at me. The stools on the marble floor seemed to want to keep me company, and their click, click, on the marble floor sounded like thunder in my ears. Suddenly I was plunged into inky blackness. From the black nothingness flashed out bright balls of light. I reached the sofa and sank down upon it. My tongue seemed to swell, and I tried in vain to scream, but no sound issued. I seemed to know that there was a long, long hour before my fellow-creatures would be back from their dinner, and then he might not come into the rear room and discover my condition. The events of days and weeks came before my mind in all the details, and I saw faces—beautiful faces—angelic in their divinity, which seemed to beckon to me and then vanish with a hideous laugh. Again was I tossed to the ceiling and then thrown by some invisible force from one side of the room to another. I felt no concussion, but bounced about like a huge foot-ball. Then I fell back into dreary contemplation and years seemed to pass by. Fantastic pictures were worked, my limbs felt weighted with lead, just the opposite to my experience of what seemed to me years ago. I heard somebody say: 'Why, Roblie, old fellow, what's the matter! Roblie! Roblie!' The words reverberated like thunder. My shop-mate had returned. Again he tried to shake me to myself, and I never hated a man so cordially as I hated him at that moment. He got a doctor, and I tell you, my friend, they had no easy time to bring me to myself. Every word they uttered surged into my brain and seemed to jar me to pieces. I suffered from that experience long afterward, and it appears even at this day, when I think it over, that I have that feeling coming on, so powerful was the impression made on me at that time."

Since total calms in excess of two days' duration are practically unknown in the United States it is entirely feasible to light country houses by wind-power. An electric dynamo may be operated by windmill and storage batteries charged for use as needed. It will probably be found that the cost will be greater than oil; but there is no comparison as regards convenience and beauty, and it is probable that the windmill will be used as a source of power for lighting the houses of rich country people.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

A Necessary Change.

The Virginia Chronicle of yesterday places Democratic political gospel in detail before its readers. Much of it is correct, and with much of it the GAZETTE does not agree at all. It was absolutely necessary to make a large number of changes in the force, partly from the fact that the old employees were inexperienced, having never coined a dollar, and partly from the general inefficiency universally displayed in the conduct of affairs by the Democratic party, of which the Postal Department is a fair example. Any one who could have seen that building, the machinery, carpets, walls and grounds when the change was made and then see them now, would say, "Verily, we got rid of Democracy and dirt together." It will be a two months' job to clean up the place and put the machinery in shape to coin the first dollar.

So far as politics go the Mint is hardly in the category. Immense sums of money are involved, and the manager has to give large bonds, so that any carelessness or crime would break him and his friends, as well as depose his party. This fact makes it necessary and proper for him to select the men and women for whom he and his friends are to be held liable. However, let the Chronicle speak for itself. It says:

On the same day that S. C. Wright assumed the superintendency of the Carson Mint he removed every one of our men in his department from Civil Clerk to spittown cleaner and coal taster. He had a full force of Republican appointees in reading, and after 8 o'clock in the morning, except a few in the Melier and Refiner's department, there was not a Democratic employee in or about the Mint premises. In a few days, when the new Melier and Refiner will be installed, a clean sweep will be made, and in that department of all the Democratic employees there, and the institution will be clean cut R-Republican from stile to cedar. We state this simply as a matter of fact, and in no spirit of captiousness or adverse criticism. On the contrary, we admire and commend Mr. Wright for his promptness in turning his good faith to the political party to which he owes his present position. His course was such as his fellow Republicans should be glad to see. It also commands the respect of all our undivided Democrats who recognize the right of the party in power to distribute the places of profit and trust exclusively within its own membership and organization. It is of only its right, but its duty; not because of the truth of the political axiom that "to the victors belong the spoils," but because of good and just judgment, such a very careful business man would exercise in conducting his own personal affairs. No prudent merchant would employ a clerk whose interests and sympathies were with a rival establishment, and there is no reason why the same rule should not apply in the matter of political appointments. The administration is never responsible for the conduct of its government affairs, and as a rule, better service can reasonably be expected from those in sympathy with the political policy of the head of the Government than from those opposed to it.

Our sensitiveness and a mistaken idea of civil service reform defeated last Fall the cleanest and best administration that the country has experienced in the last quarter of a century. We do not believe there is a state in the Union where the Federal appointive power, rather the manner in which it was exercised—did not weaken rather than strengthen the Democratic party. It was certainly so in Nevada, and unquestionably it lost us the State of New York and probably Indiana. But for that the millions of corruption money contributed by eastern monopolists would have been to us a Cleveland defeat. It was the only serious mistake of his administration, but it was enough to relegate him to private life and his party to the background during a Presidential term.

It is a mistaken idea that only the office-seekers of a party in power object to the appointment or non-removal of members of the opposition party. There are hundreds of thousands of voters—Democrats and Republicans—who neither ask nor desire public office, who are a deeply engaged at the appointment or non-removal of their political opponents as does the most chronic place-hunter that ever yelled for a comittee or Postoffice.

It is human nature, and especially so in these United States of America. There is plenty of good material in each of the political parties for all of the offices within the gift of the people. There was never an office held by a Republican that some Democrat was not equally competent to fill, and vice versa. The business of the son Mint would undoubtedly have been as efficient as conducted with an exclusively Democratic force of employees as it has with a mixed list during the last four years. During the next four years the force will be entirely Republican, but in all probability everything will run along as smoothly and successfully as though there were still a Democratic on the pay-roll. The idea that any person is indispensable in any official position is the veriest balderdash. It is the idea which cost Mr. Cleveland his election, and no sensible Democrat will blame Mr. Harrison or his commissioned appointees for avoiding the same mistake. Four years hence, when we have another Democratic President, we hope to see the lines as strictly drawn as they are at present by our Republican friends.

Mr. Cleveland's services will never be available to the American people, at least until the millennium when that will probably be need for it, for when that blissful period shall arrive there will be no opposition to the Democratic party.

Great Damage by Flood.

UTICA, N. Y., July 10.—The tracks of the New York Central are washed away at Fonda and Akin. Great damage has been done to property, not only at Johnstown, but in all the towns in the Mohawk Valley to Amsterdam.

NEW YORK, July 10.—A Johnstown special says the water that came over that village last night subsided this morning, but left scenes of desolation in every direction. The water, which rose 15 feet and overflowed everything, has fallen 8 feet. Ten people are reported missing, and the bodies of four have been recovered, all Johnstown people. A crowd of from 30 to 50 stood on the stone bridge at Perry street watching the rising water regardless of danger until the bridge gave way. The bridge was twenty feet high and fifteen or twenty feet wide. Most of those thrown into the water were saved. The sudden rise of Cayadutta Creek is supposed to be caused by a cloud-burst. Eight or nine bridges were swept away; two tanneries and dams, the electric light plant and many buildings were damaged. The only wire out of town is a telephone, over which this message was sent.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 10.—The pecuniary loss at Johnstown is small, probably $20,000. No one knows how many people are drowned or who are missing. The flood is so great and the current so strong that no help could be rendered without great danger.

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., July 10.—The number lost cannot be determined, as the estimates vary from 6 to 30. The creek is being dragged.

Anti-Parnell Tactics.

LODGE, July 10.—Michael Davitt appeared before the Parnell commission to-day. He complained that somebody who desired to injure the Irish in the eyes of the British public, placed two bogus dynamite machines within the precinct of the court, and out of this alleged attempt at outrage, the Evening Post of London made a sensational article, which said this incident indicated the danger which the court incurred, and showed how easily the desperate enemies of England, who recently testified before the commission, could blow up the court, and in an excited manner, asserted his belief that the affair had been planned by Le Caron. Justice Hannan said he understood why Davitt should have strong feelings in the matter, but he must take a proper course and make inquiries to prove his allegations. He himself regarded the matter as a silly hoax.

On Her Trial Trip.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—The cruiser Baltimore started this morning on a three days' private trial trip. She is expected to develop 10,000 horse power, though the specifications only call for 9,000.

A Salmon Cannery Burned.

SEATTLE, W. T., July 9.—Kerwood, Wyman & Co.'s salmon cannery, at Five-mile Point, was destroyed by fire Sunday. Indians are supposed to have set it on fire. Loss, $40,000.

Grand Officer Elected.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The Grand Lodge of Elks held an election to-day. Simon Quinlan of Chicago was elected Grand Ruler.

PARIS, July 10.—The Chamber of Deputies has adopted a bill providing for the purchase of the telephones by the State.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 9.—The management and operations of the French cables from Sydney to St. Pierre, and thence to France, has been taken over by the Mackay-Bennett company.

No Longer in Doubt.

NEW YORK, July 10.—A Washington special says: There is no longer any reasonable doubt but there will be a special session of Congress, probably beginning the last Monday in October or the first in November.

The First to Violate His Law.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 10.—John Kelly, convicted of the murder of Eleanor O'Shea, near Geneva, November 6, 1888, was hanged at Canandaigua at noon.

Ending the Police.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—About 11 o'clock this morning Sullivan and party took a carriage and drove away. It is not positively known, but it is believed they took the Southern Pacific train for Houston, Texas, to avoid going through Mississippi. It is presumed they will return to New York via St. Louis.

The Sheriff of Marion county, Miss., came here this morning for the purpose of arresting Sullivan and Kilrain. He has gone to Baton Rouge to get a requisition from the Governor, and will return to New Orleans this evening. Sullivan will probably cross the State line into Texas by 4 P. M.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Rumors are flying around in this city and some points in the East this afternoon to the effect that Kilrain is dead, having expired on the train between Dallas and Texarkana, Tex. Inquiries by the Associated Press elicit the statement from Dallas that there is no truth to the report.

LITTLE ROCK, July 10.—Kilrain and party passed through this city at 2:30 this afternoon. He was pretty sick. The party will reach St. Louis to-morrow.

WINDSWING From TEXAS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—Stanford and Huntington have decided to withdraw the Southern Pacific from Texas. A late law in that state provides that no railroad company operating roads within its borders shall have any legal status unless it maintains its principal offices therein. The Southern Pacific officials say they could not do this, therefore the three Texas and Louisiana roads that now form a part of the Southern Pacific main line to New Orleans will hereafter be operated as distinct roads with different sets of officers.

A USEFUL HINT.

How to Get Rid of a Troublesome Cinder.

The following hint, contributed to the Medical Summary by Dr. R. W. St. Clair, will be found valuable: "A few years ago I was riding on an engine. The engineer threw open the front window, and I caught a cinder that gave me the most excruciating pain. I began to rub my eye with both hands. 'Let your eye alone and rub the other,' said the engineer. 'I know you doctors think you know all about it, but if you let that eye alone and rub the other one, the cinder will be out in two minutes.' I began to rub the other eye, and soon I felt the cinder down near the inner canthus, and made ready to take it out. 'Let it alone and keep at the well eye,' shouted the doctor pro tem. I did so for a minute longer, and on looking in a small glass he gave me, I found the offender on my cheek. Since then I have tried it many times, and have advised many others, and I have never known it to fail in one instance."

The Bakersfield Fire.

Patrick J. Connell, aged 45, was burned to death in the James Hotel at the Bakersfield fire Sunday. The losses by the disaster will reach about $1,000,000, with an insurance of $300,000. There is very little desolation and there will be no actual suffering, and the citizens, while most grateful toward friends who are anxious to give aid, have decided that Bakersfield could help herself and would rebuild as speedily as possible.

A Scrap of Paper Serves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physician that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle. It helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought an other and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rose, plump, weighing 120 pounds. For further particular send stamp to W. H. Cole, druggist, for Smith. Trial bottle of this wonderful Discovery free at S. J. Hodgkinson's.

A. Nelson, the enterprising free employment office agent, and well-known for his fine cigars, tobacco, pipes and yankee notions, has taken the agency for Dr. Willey's Discovery, the greatest linament on earth, for aches, pains, coughs, colds, catarrh, asthma and bronchial affectio's. Also a full line of "Diamant" spectacles and eye-glasses. I buy goods as cheaply as anyone in Reno and can therefore defy competition.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee the Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you good digestion, and out Dyspepsia, and install instead Eupey. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50¢ and $1 per bottle by S. J. Hodgkinson, druggist.

A SOUL MADE HAPPY.

A Rival to the Old Organization in Evangelization.

The following correspondence would indicate that the lamp still holds out to burn:

RENO, Nev., June 22, 1889.

Dear Mr. Mills: I wish to do something useful, and you ought to encourage me. I own 80 acres of land in section 36, township 21 north, range 23 east, acquired day before yesterday by paying the State of Nevada 25 cents per acre on account of $1.25 per acre the purchase price thereof. My friend T. V. Julian, at present Clerk of this county, but at heart a poor but honest rancher like myself, also has 80 acres and our partner, G. W. Sawyer, has 80 acres. It is not land enough to justify running a ditch from the river. We want section 25, township 21 north, range 23 east, and we want the Railroad Company to sell it to us at the same price ($1.25 per acre), and, if possible, on the same terms (25 cents cash, balance in 25 years at 6 percent) as those granted by the State of Nevada. Application has already been made to Mr. Fulton here in the name of either Julian or Sawyer, or both, to buy the land at $1.25 an acre.

If the application is granted, we will excavate a ditch; we will bring the life-giving Truckee water to this now sterile soil; we will raise apples and alfalfa, barley and beans, potatoes and peaches, hay and h—l generally. We will load the east-bound freight trains of the Central Pacific Railroad with agricultural implements, animals and seed. We will monopolize the western transportation facilities of your corporation with the products of nature's bounty and our sweat.

When the benign entity which mortals call the S. P. Co. (Salvation Promoting Company) shall reach that sphere where rails (at its officers) will never be heard, where inter-State laws will trouble it not, where the principles of the eleventh commandment constitute the dominant theology, and where all men will belong to the congregation of the Rev. D. Givendam, then my testimony concerning Sec. 25, T. 21 N., R. 23 E. will cause it to deduct the same from the amount. On receipt of your memorandum, I will receipt check for the sum required.

Therefore, beloved, I beseech you to run the sword of power through all intervening tangles of red tape, and allow G. W. Sawyer, T. V. Julian and Thomas Fitch, or either of them, to acquire section 25, township 21 north, range 23 east, at $1.25 per acre. Yours truly,

THOMAS FRITCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25, 1889.

My Dear Mr. Fitch: I have before me a most remarkable letter. It is signed by yourself and dated Reno, Nev., June 22d. You can form no adequate conception of how strangely this letter sounds to me until I have premised by saying that since my induction into this department, I have often felt that the best capacities within me have been unused, and are going into disuse, or, as the late Mr. Cleveland would have put it, into "innocuous desuetude." The conduct of the business here introduces me to considerations upon the plane of sordid thoughts. It has been a favorite simile of religionists to carry the figure of bookkeeping by double entry into the realm of spiritual things, to postulate a recording angel, or chief bookkeeper, constantly at one's shoulder, making entry of debit and credit for the purpose of reaching a balance of good or evil at the close of the account. I have wondered many times why the entries stand on my account since I have been in this department. I have looked longingly across the line which divides the practical from the theoretical; from this sordid occupation to the occupations which inspire the thoughts and minds of men with more glorious things, when suddenly on my line there comes an appeal to assist some one in doing something, and that appeal is contained in your very esteemed favor of June 22d.

The most far-reaching injunction ever given to man is that which says "Come to do evil and learn to do well." It has never occurred to me that the selling of lands might promote the cessation of evil, this instruction of doing well. So when you say "The railroad company owes it to society as a moral and a religious duty to encourage me to give my attention to productive industry," the thought produced a stunning effect, resembling the ophthalmia which afflicted St. Paul when on his way from Jerusalem to Damascus to prosecute the Christians.

Graveyard Despilers.

A. Wilson, employed in Saunders' cemetery, informs a GAZETTE reporter that thieves are robbing the graves of sin and folly so luminous a planet as yourself. We will reach forth a strong hand to aid the reform, which we see has been begun in your mind, at $1.50 an acre on five years' time, and thereby establish the fixed and invariable policy of this department that souls which must be saved on a credit of 25 years, are not worth saving; nor would we postpone for so long a period the placing of such gems in that domain of glory, which must eventually reach the brow of every landed corporation. For inasmuch as I perceive that you have the awakening of the spirit, whereby you are enabled to see that "men study law to get on, practice law to get honor and refrain from the practice thereof to get honest," I shall entertain the hope that
